Doctor Performance Benchmark

Salary per Monat by Doctors

Retained % and Lost %

DOCTOR_014 earns the highest salary at €11,900/month — €2,750 more than DOCTOR_013 and DOCTOR_018 who each earn €9,150. DOCTOR_010 has the lowest salary at €7,700 despite only working 3 months. Higher salary does not directly translate to better retention performance.

The retention gap between doctors is critical. DOCTOR_013 retains 88.9% of clients — the best in the clinic. DOCTOR_010 retains only 35.7% and loses 83.3% of clients — more than double the clinic average lost rate of 53.3%. This is the single biggest risk to Q5 profitability.

Doctor Performance Benchmark

Revenue per Visit by Doctors for the 4th quarter

Profit per Visit by Doctors for the 4th quarter

Revenue per Visit by Doctors (Q4)

DOCTOR_010 and DOCTOR_014 generate the highest revenue per visit at €236 — slightly above DOCTOR_018 (€229) and DOCTOR_013 (€223). The difference is small — only €13 between highest and lowest — meaning all doctors price services similarly.

Profit per Visit by Doctors (Q4)

Despite similar revenue per visit, profit per visit varies significantly. DOCTOR_010 leads at €161 profit per visit due to lower material costs (31.8%). DOCTOR_013 earns only €135 per visit — the lowest — partly because of higher material costs (36.9%). This shows that managing material costs matters as much as revenue.

Q5 Revenue Forecast

Optimistic scenario summary:

Based on 465 maximum monthly visits and a 5% ACV increase from €235 to €247, monthly revenue reaches €114,739. With expenses stable at €102,927, the clinic earns €11,812 profit per month. By end of Q5 the cumulative balance turns positive at +€47,560 — full breakeven achieved.

Pessimistic scenario summary:

If visits stay at current M12 levels (452) and ACV does not grow, monthly revenue holds at €106,309 — barely above expenses of €102,927. Monthly profit remains thin at €3,382. Cumulative balance improves slowly and breakeven may not be reached within Q5.
